

What are the benefits of working with a global payment processor?

Working with global payment processors allows businesses to evaluate products and services simultaneously, without having to put in any strenuous work from their side of things. This means you are left with only having to ask yourself one key question – Do you want to accept card payments? The first and foremost benefit of working with a payment processor is, of course, the added ability to process credit card and debit card payments. This may seem relatively straightforward, but it is not something that should be looked over!

When opening merchant accounts across several or new jurisdictions, it is important to follow certain regulations. For example, having a European bank account is required when opening a European Merchant Account. The same rule applies in North America - a US bank account is necessary to open a US merchant account. Merchant Connect Incorporations has the tools to assist you with all requirements.

Merchant Connect Incorporations is incredibly fortunate to have partnerships with global merchant account providers and acquiring banks, which allows us to offer a range of their facilities to our clients. This allows our clients the benefit of opening a merchant account and take payments online and in-store, with Merchant Connect Incorporations making a fast-track application on your behalf. We work with all business sizes and serve as a perfect choice for businesses who are looking to take business payments easily, quickly, and securely. We can help manage your cash flow, currency, and fraud risk by tailoring our services to your exact business needs.

If you opt for a merchant account when you register a company with Merchant Connect Incorporations, our team will review and process it on your behalf. When you add this product to your company formation package, a payment expert will call you within two days to understand your needs ensuring we get you set up to start accepting card payments.

By working with us to set up your company, you will be able to almost immediately see and understand the benefits we bring! Saving your business valuable time and money by collaborating with us!
